

KEY STAGE 5 ASSESSMENT

As your daughter progresses through Key Stage 5 at Holly Lodge, it is important for us to take the right opportunities to gauge how she is progressing and report these to you. This will allow us to celebrate her successes, as well as identify any areas where she needs either additional support or further challenge in her lessons.

At Holly Lodge, this happens at points we call Progress Checks. These are calendared throughout the year and timed to ensure they are at the most appropriate point in the curriculum. The Key Stage 5 Progress Check calendar for 2023-24 is detailed below:

Year 12 Calendar 2023-24:

Year 12 Progress Checks:

* The Year 13 report 1 is provided to students and their parents/carers at the Parents Evening hosted on 17th January. This is a key Year 13 event, as it is at this point we will reveal to students their performance in their mock examinations. Mocks exams are the closest experience to the summer exam series that Year 13 will experience ahead of this time. Receiving results in this way is an important milestone and Year 13 teachers will be on hand to discuss results with students and their parents, to celebrate their successes and to plan with them the best way to maximise their results in August.

Year 13 BTEC subjects:

Students who complete Key Stage 5 BTEC or applied general qualifications complete formal exams and internal assessments at key points in Year 12 and Year 13. These vary by subject and by pupil. Internal deadlines will be communicated clearly to pupils and parents when appropriate.

External BTEC assessment will mainly take place within two windows in January 2024 and May-June 2024

Year 13 Examinations:

- Monday 13th May 2024: Exam series begins (provisional)
- Friday 21st June 2024: Exam series ends (provisional)
- Wednesday 26th June 2024: External exam contingency day (provision) – all students are required to be available until this date.

Please note: That during the summer exam series, students will be provided with significant, subject specific revision opportunities in school. Normal subject timetables will continue until students have sat their last exam in that subject and completed all coursework requirements.

Assessment procedures

At Holly Lodge, assessments are not a surprise for students, instead they are part of a carefully constructed series of events. These are:

Study Skills – students are shown a range of techniques which will help them to prepare for their assessments. This work is conducted in form time.

Revision week – some lessons are used to revise key knowledge and concepts ahead of the assessments

Assessments. Students are provided with a timetable of when the various assessments are to take place. This will also be uploaded to Google Classroom to be reviewed as necessary.

Up to 2 weeks after the 2nd assessment week: DIRT (Directed Improvement and Reflection Time). This is used to review any issues from the assessments, support students with any misconceptions and challenge students further where appropriate.

Assessment content and feedback:

Progress Checks are conducted on the elements of the qualification delivered to date. They are designed to understand how much of this content students have fully understood, retained and can apply into new contexts. in an examination setting. Teachers will use this information to plan their future curriculum and feedback will focus on students further developing students understanding and knowledge.

Reporting assessments to parents and carers:

At calendared points in the year (see above), the class teacher reviews the performance of each student throughout the year as well as during the Progress Checks that each student has completed and reports to parents.

The following information will be provided for the majority of subjects:

- Student attendance up to the point the report was compiled. Poor attendance to school will likely slow student progress, as they are missing key content and teacher support. At Holly Lodge a minimum of 97% attendance is expected.
- An Attitude to Learning grade – This is a judgement of how well each student has approached the subject and the effort they have given to their studies. 3 potential grades are available to teachers; Excellent, Good and Requires Improvement. Where a Requires Improvement judgement is given, this will be further explained as to the reason this has been provided i.e. behavior standards or the effort made in lessons.

Year 13 Progress Check
May 2023

This area of the report will show your daughters current attendance and how this is having an impact on her progress

Attendance	Target Attendance: 97% Actual Attendance: 98.9%	Your attendance and progress
		97% and over	Your attendance is excellent – if you work hard, you should cover all that you need to meet your target grade or predictions.
		90% to 97%	Your attendance is good but needs to improve so that there are fewer gaps in your knowledge from work you have missed.
		Less than 90%	You are making your life in school difficult because of the amount of work you are missing. You will need to work very hard to catch up or you will struggle to maintain your grades at the level they are at now.
Subject	Attitude to Learning	Year 13 Minimum Expected Grade	PC1 Prediction	PC2 Mock Exam Assessment	PC2 Mock Exam Prediction	PC3 Assessment	PC3 Prediction
Applied Science Single Award	Excellent	D*	D*	D* =	D*	D* +	D*
Biology	Excellent	B	A	A+	A	A+	A
Mathematics	Excellent	B	A	A+	A	A+	A

Current Attitude to Learning the teacher feels your daughter is demonstrating in the subject

Minimum Expected Grade (MEG). This is the lowest grade we would expect a student to achieve in the course they are studying. This is not a limit to our ambition for her and many students go well beyond these

Mock exam grade & predicted grades provided in January. The grade the teacher thinks the student is most likely to achieve at the end of the course

Final assessment and prediction grade. Provided in April after completing assessments. Once again, predicted grades may be revised from earlier in the year and can go up or down

Disruption to school exams:

If for any reason there is disruption which causes an exam series to be unable to run as planned (as last happened in 2020 & 2021 due to the Covid-19 pandemic), the Office of Qualifications and Examinations Regulation (Ofqual) have released guidance on how school assessment should support student.

- Schools and colleges should not usually have to change their assessment plans. Most schools and colleges do some form of formal mock exam already.
- Students should only be assessed on content they have been taught.
- The assessments should take place in exam conditions as much as possible (i.e. students should not know the questions in advance, assessments should be timed, students should be supervised, and should work independently, etc).
- Where students would normally have access arrangements or adaptations in an exam due to disability, these should be in place.
- Students should be told that in the unlikely event of exams being cancelled, these assessments may form part of a Teacher Assessed Grade (TAG).
- Students may be told their grade on a mock exam but teachers must be clear that this is not necessarily their TAG in the unlikely event that exams are cancelled.
- The assessments should be retained physically or electronically, although students can see comments and marks for formative purposes.
- Schools should mark against the awarding organisation's (AO's) published mark schemes and use pre-pandemic grading or grading from 2023 onwards

We believe that all Key Stage 5 assessment arrangements at Holly Lodge adhere to these guidelines and in the exceptional circumstances of an exam series needing to be cancelled, we would be well placed to support our students to be awarded a Teacher Assessed Grade.
